A web-based ecommerce booking platform - ready to be tailored to multiple industries.

This automated service booking platform effectively connects users with service providers, allowing them to receive live quotations, and then accept and complete bookings based upon user preference. The business is not restricted by territory or location as it is a web-based platform. The business currently operates from a North West location in Sydney, however, it provides services and solutions to users and clients to all areas and regions throughout Australia.

This powerful online platform allows users to obtain a selection of quotes for their specific job, from which users can then select and book the service provider that best suits their needs. This platform has endless opportunities, and could be applied to many different industries. The investment in this business has been carried out over a number of years and is extremely user friendly. The system was developed to operate at arm's length (fully automated), with all communication quotations, acceptance and booking functions conducted between the user and the various service provider, with personal contact information only exchanged at the time of acceptance and booking. Financials and general business information will be supplied once a Confidentiality agreement has been filled in, and when you meet the owner. Motivated vendor! Keen to sell.
