Leading Niche Civil Construction Business NSW

Our client operates an engineering services and construction business in the ground stabilisation sector with a reputation of being an industry leader. Most recent annual revenue levels are circa $7m, with a history of profitable growth over many years.

The business has a client base including some of NSWs leading asset owners, as well as bringing specialist skills to larger broad based construction players. The business can also service commercial / residential construction needs for retaining walls, underpinning and slope stabilisation.

The business has major project work in hand to underpin revenues in the current year and beyond. Growth opportunities include expansion into other locations and diversification into aligned services.

The business would add significant value to larger civil or engineering houses with the wide client base serving to enhance revenue opportunities. Equally, it could suit a technical executive looking to operate and further grow a successful business.

The business operates from Sydney. Owner is available for a comprehensive business transition.

Registrations of Interest are sought for the business, which is offered for sale as a going concern.
