Own your own business in the beautiful NSW Southern Highlands

Are you keen to own your own business in the beautiful NSW Southern Highlands. If you are, this well-established printing business could be just what you are after.

Operating Monday to Friday only, it offers an excellent work-life balance for an owner-operator or a husband-and-wife team. Industry experience is not essential as the current owner is willing to provide a solid three months of free training and support to ensure a seamless transition.

The business produces and sells a broad range of printed products, including business cards, brochures, booklets, invoice books, posters, large-format signage, banners, stationery, stickers, flyers, brochures, booklets and bespoke wedding materials. The business also offers in-house graphic design and is a true one-stop shop for customers.

Over the years, this business has built a substantial database of long-term repeat customers. These are spread across a wide range of sectors, including Government departments, schools, sporting clubs, small to medium-sized businesses, corporations, not for profit organisations, other printing businesses and rural businesses.

The business is well-equipped, and the premises are fully set up and ready for you to step into and operate. Also, a secure lease is available.

Profitability to a working owner is circa $140,000 per year.

The owners have been running the business around their relaxed lifestyle and feel that there is plenty of scope for an energetic, driven owner to significantly grow the business.

This quality business is being offered for sale at $220,000 negotiable.

The business could also make a great purchase for an existing print company looking to grow through acquisition.
