Technology Consulting Firm High-Growth Niche Opportunity

An exceptional opportunity exists to acquire a boutique Australian technology consultancy operating in one of the fastest-growing segments of the IT-services market.

This well-established firm partners with major private and public-sector clients to strengthen internal capability and improve delivery performance across software development, DevSecOps, cloud engineering, observability, and delivery leadership. Its co-sourced engagement model places experienced consultants directly within client teams, building long-term capability and fostering deep client relationships.

Recognised nationally for its innovation and delivery excellence, the business enjoys recurring work from an impressive client base and benefits from strong governance, modern systems, and proprietary learning IP. Supported by a highly skilled team, the company is well positioned for continued expansion as organisations accelerate automation, cloud transformation, and AI adoption.

Ideal for an established consulting group, strategic investor, or experienced technology leader seeking a scalable platform with brand credibility, embedded expertise, and immediate revenue momentum.
