AN EXCELLENT INDUSTRY TO BE IN

Window furnishings are an attractive sector because demand is driven by a broad range of markets including new homes, renovations, replacement products, investment properties, commercial premises and security upgrades. Unlike discretionary businesses that rely heavily on passing foot traffic, this business supplies practical products that property owners continually require.

Blinds and curtains provide privacy, light control, insulation and interior presentation, while security products and roller shutters add another important revenue stream.

The diversity of the product offering means the business is not dependent upon one particular product or customer type.

A BUSINESS WITH THE STRUCTURE ALREADY IN PLACE

One of the major attractions here is that a purchaser is not buying themselves a full-time job.

The current owner works approximately 20 hours per week, supported by an experienced office manager, sales personnel and established systems.

This provides an incoming purchaser with choices. An owner-operator could become more involved and potentially drive further growth, while a purchaser seeking a more management-focused business already has much of the required infrastructure in place.

With substantial annual sales in excess of $1.4 million, exceptional profitability, an impressive showroom, experienced personnel and decades of goodwill, businesses of this calibre are difficult to establish from scratch.

The foundations have already been built.
