Agricultural Products Distributor For Sale | Expressions of Interest

This business holds exclusive distribution rights for the a range of agricultural biostimulation products across Australia and New Zealand under a formal Distribution Agreement.

The Company operates as the master distributor for the Territory, supplying an established network of independent sub-distributors, together with selected outlets and direct customers.

The business represents an opportunity to acquire an established and contractually exclusive market position within the agricultural biostimulant sector. To date, market development has been constrained by

The current owners' capacity to actively grow the business, including health-related limitations, rather than the extent of the available Territory or product portfolio.

The owners are now seeking a suitable acquirer capable of building on the existing distributor network, increasing market penetration and further developing the brand across Australia and New Zealand.

With an established international supplier, broad product portfolio and significant geographic territory, the business provides a platform for a new owner to pursue the next stage of growth.

Expressions of Interest are invited for the acquisition.

The opportunity includes the established exclusive distribution arrangements, existing customer and sub-distributor network, supplier relationship, inventory on hand, relevant import licences and registrations, registered domains, and established operational systems.
