This small / medium sized engineering consultancy has been providing a broad range of Structural, Civil and Aquatic engineering services to a niche market for many years using a multi- disciplinary approach. Long standing relationships with councils, major construction companies, architects and contractors have underpinned the success and strong record of profitability of the business. It is proactive in keeping in contact with industry players.

Business Resources

This consultancy is a good fit as an "add-on" for a multi-disciplinary engineering company, or a purchaser wishing to branch out on his / her own. You will need skills in the fields of structural, civil or services engineering for buildings and other infrastructure, but, not all of these combined are necessary. You do not need a background in the niche field.
